EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

International Yoga Day was observed on June 21 and Guru Purnima was commemorated on July 3. The arrangement of these celebrations appears to be divinely ordained, as yoga and guru are inseparable. A guru cannot exist without a disciple, just as a disciple cannot exist without a guru. And the bond between the two is that of trust. The relationship is of transcendental nature. Despite being a worldly one in form, it is essentially otherworldly in its impact.

As awareness of the benefits of yoga spreads worldwide and it becomes a daily practice in everyone's life, one day everyone will come to realise the profound significance of the two-letter word "yoga" as it ultimately brings about transformative improvements in people's lives. With practice, our essential spiritual identity begins to unveil before us. We become Adhyaatmic.

Adhyaatmic chaitanya perceives the unfolding of all events in one's life and the world around them solely through a positive or divine lens, regardless of how these events may be perceived by ordinary intellect.

It is easy for everyone to rejoice when everything is going well for themselves and others. However, the ability to perceive the brighter side of the world even when things are not so favourable is a quality that emerges in one's life when they start comprehending the deeper aspects of yoga. Yoga connects to higher consciousness. Every religion professes that, its followers should be peaceful, forgiving and humble. Is it possible to be peaceful, forgiving and humble without transcending to higher consciousness? So long as we don't evolve to see our consciousness encompassing all living beings as part of our own existence, we don't feel connected.

When we lack a connection, we are unable to manifest the values we uphold, which arise from our understanding of ourselves as integral to a shared consciousness. That explains why our seers and saints deemed yoga essential for connection between various stages of realisation. Consciousness is conduit as well as goal between devotee and the devoted. Clearly there is no religion which doesn't come within the all-encompassing definition of yoga.

Everyone looks for staying connected with god. Still, some argue whether connection to Almighty is possible? Yoga transforms human beings in the ultimate run.

3,249 pushups in 1 hour to break world record

Sydney: An Australian fitness enthusiast recaptured a Guinness World Records title by performing 3,249 pushups in one hour.

Daniel Scali, 30, previously set the record for most pushups in one hour at 3,182 in April 2022, but his record was broken by fellow Australian Lucas Helmke, who performed 3,206 pushups in November 2022.

Scali credited the burpees he performed while training for his latest attempt with helping him set the new record.

Scali's left arm is in near constant pain due a condition called complex regional pain syndrome, which was caused by a severe break when he was 12 years old.

Scali said his next goal is to recapture another record he formerly held: the longest time in an abdominal plank position.

Company creates 1,429.47-pound marshmallow

Guadalajara: A Mexican candy company earned a Guinness World Record by creating a massive marshmallow weighing more than a grand piano.

Dulces Mazapán de la Rosa created the marshmallow outdoors at Plaza Fundadores in Guadalajara as part of celebrations surrounding the state of Jalisco's 200th anniversary.

It took 53 hours by a team of about 100 people to prepare the giant, fluffy treat.

The marshmallow weighed in at 1,429.47 pounds, more than a 1,058-pound Steinway D274 grand piano, Guinness World Records (GWR) said.

A GWR representative was on hand to verify the colossal confection beat the previous record of 205.25 pounds, set by Britain's Berkhamsted School in 2019.

Maintenance of aged mother: HC dismisses sons' petition

- Sons challenge Mysuru DC Court's order of monthly payment to ailing mother
- HC says children are bound by law, religion and custom to care for aged parents

Mysuru, July 15 (BCT)- Expressing concern over the increasing number of youngsters failing to fulfil their obligations towards their ageing and ailing parents and calling it an unhappy development, the Karnataka High Court (HC) on July 12 dismissed a petition filed by siblings from Mysuru, Gopal and Mahesh, who challenged a maintenance order to pay Rs. 10,000 per month to their aged mother.

The Court upheld the order of the DC and underlined the importance of respecting the legal, religious and cultural obligation of sons to care for parents in their old age. The dispute was between Venkatamma, wife of late Yellaiah, a resident of Kurimandi Circle, Kesare, in N.R. Mohalla and her sons, Gopal and Mahesh.

The dispute began when the Assistant Commissioner (AC) of Mysuru H.N. Shivegowda ordered Gopal and Mahesh to pay Rs. 5,000 each as monthly maintenance to their mother, Venkatamma, in 2019.

Dissatisfied with the decision, the brothers appealed to the then Deputy Commissioner (DC)

Abhiram G. Sankar, who subsequently (22-05-2019) increased the maintenance amount to Rs. 10,000 each. Disappointed with this outcome, Gopal and Mahesh further challenged the order in the High Court.

Penalty for petition

Justice Krishna S. Dixit of the Karnataka High Court, while dismissing the petition and affirming the DC's decision, rebuffed all the arguments raised by the brothers. The Court also imposed a cost of Rs. 5,000 on the brothers for filing the petition.

In its ruling, the Court emphasised that the obligation to care for dependent parents by a son is as crucial as supporting a dependent spouse. The Court rejected the brothers' claim of insufficient means to provide financial support, stating that their argument was no ground for neglecting the responsibility of caring for their ageing and ailing mother.

The Court noted that Gopal owns three shops and earns a rental income of Rs. 20,000, despite disclosing only Rs. 10,000 as his income. "The second petitioner is not before the Court, but it is his case too that he is weak and incapable of earning," the Court said.

"If an able-bodied person is bound to maintain his dependent wife, there is no reason why such a rule should not apply when it comes to the case of a dependent mother. With no joy in heart, this Court observes that nowadays, a section of youngsters is failing to look after the aged and ailing parents and the number is swelling. This is not a happy development," Justice Krishna Dixit said.

Judge quotes scriptures

Quoting scriptures, including the 'Taittiriya Upanishad' and the 'Brahmanda Purana,' the Court emphasised the legal, religious and customary duty of sons to care for their parents, especially their aged mother. "To neglect the parents, particularly in their old age, when they become weak and dependent and to cause anguish, is a heinous act for which there is no atonement available," Justice Krishna Dixit said.

The Court dismissed the brothers' contention that Venkatamma should live with them instead of her daughters.

'Bread costlier than blood'

"This Court saw Venkatamma, who is illiterate and has fragile health conditions. Her eyesight is considerably diminished. No law or ruling cites that unwilling parents can be forced to reside with children. Such a contention is incongruous and abhorrent to our culture and tradition, to say the least," the Judge said.

The Court also dismissed the allegation that Venkatamma's daughters manipulated her.

"It is not that the daughters want any share in the family property. It is they who have been looking after the mother abandoned by the sons. We are living in an age where bread is costlier than blood. Money is losing its purchasing power and days are proving very costly. A sum of Rs. 10,000 by any measure cannot be said to be excess," the Court said.

Children must care for aged parents

I do not particularly remember the case of Venkatamma, Gopal and Mahesh. But when I was the Mysuru Assistant Commissioner, I remember adjudicating five to six such cases where children were in dispute with their aged parents. I am happy that the High Court has ruled in favour of the elderly woman as it is the duty of children to take care of their parents. Initially, when such cases come to the AC Court or DC Court, we first advise the children to take care of their parents. We proceed legally only when the children refuse to listen to us.

Newly-wed bride elopes with boyfriend with hubby's gold

FIR at Shankaranarayana Police Station, Kundapura; value of gold, diamonds pegged at Rs. 10 lakh

Mysuru/Kundapura, July 15 (RK&BCT)- A newly-wed bride from Kundapura in Udupi district allegedly eloped with her boyfriend making off with gold and diamond jewellery worth over Rs. 10 lakh.

The Shankaranarayana Police, Kundapura, have registered multiple cases against the individuals involved, including the bride, her parents and the boyfriend, based on a complaint filed by the aggrieved husband. The complaint stated that the woman went with her boyfriend, who works in BEML, Mysuru.

The complainant, 31-year-old Sanketh Shetty, hailing from Ullooru-74 village, tied the knot with Spoorthi Shetty, a resident of Vadera hobli in Kundapura, on May 21, 2023, in a ceremony held at R.N. Shetty Hall in Kundapura. However, their marriage quickly turned sour when Spoorthi started expressing her disinterest in the relationship.

Spoorthi told Sanketh that she married him due to pressure from her parents, while she was in love with one Naveen. Within days, she began visiting her parents frequently and engaging in daily messaging and video calls with her paramour, Naveen, who worked at BEML in Mysuru, the complaint said.

Sanketh told the Police that Spoorthi got in touch with Naveen just four days after their marriage and their marriage was not consummated.

According to the Police, Sanketh objected to his wife's behaviour as Spoorthi openly declared her love for Naveen and her lack of interest in her marital commitment. Sanketh revealed to the Police that Spoorthi's parents, Satish Shetty and Sujatha Shetty and uncle Ashok Shetty, were aware of their daughter's affair and conspired to conceal the truth, arranging the marriage without disclosing the relationship to Sanketh.

Sanketh has mentioned in the complaint that when he brought his wife's behaviour to the notice of her parents, they apparently told him that they did not permit the marriage of Naveen and Spoorthi due to caste differences and asked him (Sanketh) to adjust. Sanketh told the Police that Spoorthi's parents also threatened to file a marital harassment case against him if he did not adjust in the relationship.

Sanketh has told the Police that the situation took a drastic turn on June 16 when Spoorthi left his home to join her boyfriend, Naveen.

Acting on Naveen's instructions, she allegedly took away jewellery belonging to Sanketh's family, including a diamond necklace valued at Rs. 10 lakh, diamond earrings, a diamond finger ring, a gold chain, gold bangles and a gold necklace belonging to Sanketh's mother.

Disturbed by his wife's actions, Sanketh decided to approach the Police and filed a complaint on July 12, 2023.

The Shankaranarayana Police have registered cases under IPC Sections 406, 420, 417, 506, 504 and 149 — criminal breach of trust, cheating, dishonestly inducing delivery of property, abetment, breach of peace and criminal intimidation — against Spoorthi Shetty, her parents Satish Shetty and Sujatha Shetty, Ashok Shetty and Naveen.

Online fraudsters cheat lakhs of rupees to innocents

CEN Cops book cases; Septuagenarian man, engineer and youth among victims

Mysuru, July 15 (BS)- In three separate cases, fraudsters have cheated several lakhs of rupees to gullible people, by allegedly luring them with attractive offers online. The cases have been registered at Cyber, Economics and Narcotics (CEN) Crime Police Station in the city.

K. Chandrashekar, 77 years and a resident of Vidyaranyapuram in the city, was cheated of Rs. 4.26 lakh under the pretext of updating Know Your Customer (KYC) details of his bank account. Chandrashekar received a message regarding the process of updating his KYC on his cell number. When he contacted the sender on that cell number, they collected his ATM card details and transferred Rs. 4,26,112 to their bank account. CEN Police have registered a case.

YouTube subscription

In another case, K.T. Rani, an engineer and a resident of Hebbal 2nd Stage in the city, has been cheated of Rs. 3.22 lakh.

Rani received a message on her WhatsApp about subscription of a YouTube channel. When she contacted the sender, she was told about a task to be completed promising returns on investment.

Rani believed in the offer and transferred Rs. 3.22 lakh. When she asked for her share of profit, she was asked to invest more denying her claim for profit otherwise. It was at that time, Rani realised that she has been cheated and approached CEN Police.

Job offer

A 30-year-old man has been cheated of Rs. 81,300 under the pretext of arranging a job in an e-Commerce firm. N. Chandan, a resident of V.V. Mohalla in the city, is the victim, who was taken for a ride after clicking on an Instagram link. After clicking the link, Chandan received a message on his cell phone from a number (90090-42761), about Amazon e-Commerce job. Later, he received further messages on Amazon sales on Telegram App.

The fraudsters got Rs. 200 transferred to their account from Chandan and gave him a task. After successfully completing the task, they transferred Rs. 450 to Chandan's account. Chandan, who unknowingly walked into the trap, gradually transferred Rs. 81,300 to the fraudsters. They demanded 30 percent commission from Chandan to withdraw the amount. Suspecting something fishy, Chandan lodged a complaint at CEN Police Station.

VOICE OF THE READER

Vehicle parking fee at Railway Station: Verification needed

Sir,

I had parked my two-wheeler on June 2 at around 7.10 pm at the parking area of Mysuru City Railway Station to catch Talguppa Express to Bengaluru. On June 3, I returned in Chamundi Express train and took my two-wheeler at around 8.55 pm. The parking staff charged Rs. 60. I said it is Rs. 30 for 24 hours and Rs. 10 for next two hours totalling Rs. 40 as per the parking fees displayed on the board.

The staff said, after 24 hours, full charge is applicable for next day and showed me the bottom line — written as "Next everyday" and charges mentioned for 12 to 24 hours in each vehicle category. Also, the staff informed me that previous contract was on hourly basis and now tender is floated on "everyday" basis.

Most of the parked vehicle owners paid the amount demanded by the parking staff.

It is my humble request to the Railway authorities to clarify whether the:

(a) Tender floated as displayed on the lines of collection "especially after 24 hours"?

(b) Which way 24 hours basis is being taken into consideration in the Tender.

(c) If vehicle is parked in the previous night at 10 pm and collected next day at 2 pm, how many hours or days counted for parking fee ?

(d) Is the collection, as I explained, genuine and vigilance authority aware of it or is this an off-way collection as no receipt is being given in the exit time?

I request the Railway authorities to look into this in the interest of passengers as amount is being collected by the contractor from thousands of vehicle owners daily. And to ensure the legal collection, exit receipt also be made mandatory to avoid such illegal collection (of parking fee) if any.

Old leaders make way...

Youngsters are coming

Cartoon Courtesy: https://india.postsen.com

The recent political machinations in Maharashtra brought up an interesting issue — age. Is age just a number in politics? Yes. But one should know when to retire and how to retire. In all facets of life.

Nationalist Congress Party (NCP) President Sharad Pawar, at the launch of his autobiography last month, announced his retirement and said, "It is time for a new generation to guide the party." A month later, Pawar did a U-turn; he said, "Party workers were disheartened, so they have persuaded me to change my decision."

This upset his nephew Ajit Pawar, who thought he was the 'new generation to guide the party.' Ajit Pawar promptly broke away from NCP and asked his 83-year-old uncle Sharad Pawar, "You are 83. Aren't you going to stop?" Ajit Pawar, being a politician, should have known the answer — No, Never.

In Indian politics, age is just a number. Indian politicians will 'politick till their last breath.' This has been the case from Morarji Desai to Sitaram Kesari to Narasimha Rao to J.H. Patel.

But what keeps our senior politicians going on and on? It's not energizer battery, it is not Yoga and it's definitely not a sense of service. The most effective anti-ageing agent is hunger — Hunger for Power.

The quest for power, to remain in power and playing power politics, is the secret to a long active life. This is not just in India, in any country, where there is power and politics. There are older men sticking around, be it Joe Biden, who was 78 when he was sworn-in as the President of the USA or 90-year-old Paul Biya, the President of Cameroon.

Power is intoxicating and once experienced at a political level, it is hard to let go. That is why old politicians who can't be in power take the proxy route by making politicians out of their kith and kin.

Should politicians have a retirement age? NO. Why should they, if they can still win elections? It's up to the people to decide who they want.

Not just politics, be it any field, if an old person can do his job well, if they can adapt to the changing work requirements, if they are of sound mind and body, there is no need for anyone to retire, unless they wish to.

In India, we have a bad habit; we quickly deem everyone old. The moment a young couple is married, they become uncle and aunty. A glimpse of grey hair will make young children dive at one's feet and seek blessings.

Perfectly fit and active elders are often made to feel old by their children. They are made to feel old by the attitude of the people around them. We must never behave or speak in a manner that makes an older individual feel useless. Because a feeling of 'purposeless existence' is demoralising.

That said, be it politics or business, the key is giving opportunity for leadership without judging the outcome. Even in our daily life, we need the wisdom of the elders... but you have to draw lines. Both elders and youngsters have to set boundaries.

Freud said, "No one could be a man unless his father had died." And Carl Jung added to it, saying, "Yes, but that death can take place symbolically." This means that most children accept the 'superior-inferior' relationship with their parents, that 'father/mother knows best.' This is because parents are the crutch you use to navigate the world as you grow up.

Children will never truly become 'adults' if this crutch is not retired. This crutch that helps a child walk, if it remains in use for too long, will hold them back from running towards a life of adventure and discovery.

Freud meant that when the father is gone, you must make up your own mind without the fatherly wisdom or fear of his judgement or approval. In short, you take responsibility for your actions; you are no more a boy; you become a 'man.'

The 'symbolic' part of Carl Jung's remark is that, as you get older, you realise your father or your parents don't have all the answers; they are as clueless as you are about many issues. This realisation is the symbolic 'death' of dependency, the father.

If parents accept that they don't know any better and let their children make their choices, the roles will be reversed. Son or daughter will face adversity, take responsibility and develop a sense of accountability which will, in turn, make them the crutch that parents may need as they age.

Elders need to know when and how to let go, or else the child will have to wait for them to pass, or worse, they will leave. This will happen in politics, business and our private lives.

Sharad Pawar did not know when and how to let go. Now his nephew, who had been managing the party, has gone, the MLAs have gone, the party symbol is going and his party itself may be gone. Sometimes letting go is the best way to keep it going under new leadership.

After all, as Alfred Tennyson said, "The old order changeth, yielding place to new, And God fulfills Himself in many ways..."

Minister wants to make Mysuru plastic-free

To promote a 'plastic-free' environment atop Chamundi Hill, the authorities have been directed to establish guidelines. Additionally, financial support will be provided to cloth bag manufacturers, as they offer a viable alternative to plastic carry bags. A committee will be formed to ensure the proper enforcement of the law and hold individuals accountable for their use of plastic, stated Minister Eshwar Khandre.

Moreover, an Elephant Task Force will be established in Mysuru, Chamarajanagar and Ramanagara districts. This Task Force will be responsible for managing incidents involving elephants straying into human settlements.

Zero-tolerance policy

When questioned about corruption allegations within the Forest Department, particularly against the Conservator of Forest of Bandipur National Park, Khandre emphasised a zero-tolerance policy toward corruption. Two Divisional Forest Officers (DFOs) have already been suspended and further action will be taken against other officers after Departmental inquiry.

Addressing the issue of human-animal conflict, the Minister highlighted the installation of railway barricades as elephant-proof trenches. Although the cost of this measure is substantial, with a total length of 640 km and 330 km already laid, the State Government has allocated Rs. 120 crore in the budget. Rs. 50 crore will be sought from the Central Government, he added.

Dasara meeting

Khandre revealed that all matters concerning the upcoming Dasara festival will be discussed in a meeting scheduled for tomorrow (July 16) in the city. Tomorrow, he has a scheduled visit to Chamundi Hill at 10.30 am.

Following that, at 11.15 am, he will proceed to Congress office in city where he will hold a meeting with the party office-bearers. Subsequently, at 12.30 pm, he will visit Aranya Bhavan in Ashokapuram to conduct a meeting with Forest Department officials, the Mysuru District Minister and Legislators.

The incident took place on June 26 in Kaggaligundi Tribal Hamlet, located in Hanur taluk, Chamarajanagar. While Ramu managed to escape, the leopard dragged Susheela by her neck for a distance of 100 metres.

Three new Dialysis Centres in Mysuru: Health Commissioner

At District Hospital on KRS Road, Saligrama and Saragur Taluk Hospitals

D. Randeep

Mysuru, July 15 (RK&BCT)- Three new Dialysis Centres will be established in Mysuru under Pradhan Mantri National Dialysis Programme (PMNDP). While one will be at the District Hospital on KRS Road and the other two will come up at the Taluk Hospitals of Saragur and Saligrama.

Health Commissioner D. Randeep told Star of Mysore that the Health Department is coming up with 51 new Dialysis Centres. "As of now, there are 168 Dialysis Centres in Karnataka under PMNDP, including 146 in Taluk Hospitals and 22 in District Hospitals. A fresh tender has been floated to find an agency to manage all Government Dialysis Centres run under PMNDP," Randeep said.

At the District Hospital in Mysuru, a 10-bed dialysis facility will come up and the tender process has started. "Very soon, we will have the facility in the hospital as well as at Saragur and Saligrama. Once the Taluk Hospitals are equipped with Dialysis Centres, they have been directed not to refer the patients to either K.R. Hospital or District Hospital," Randeep added.

It may be mentioned here that Health Minister Dinesh Gundurao is taking measures to address the state of State-run Dialysis Centres and has instructed officials to initiate a fresh tender.

The Minister noted that of the 168 operating Dialysis Centres, 145 centres operate without the supervision of a Nephrologist. The initiative's portal confirms the availability of 633 functional dialysis machines.

Acknowledging the subpar condition of the centres, the Minister expressed concern about the high cost of each dialysis procedure. The current cost of dialysis, which stands at Rs. 1,120, is unreasonably high and should be reduced through the new tender, the Minister said.

"Upon reviewing the current tender with officials, it became apparent that the prices are exorbitant. Therefore, a new tender will be introduced to bring down the cost while ensuring improved quality. We will also address the shortage of Nephrologists in these centres," Dinesh Gundurao said.

In the Taluk Hospitals, each Dialysis Centre is currently managed by a technician and a staff nurse during each shift. However, under the new conditions, the service provider will be required to employ a Nephrologist for each district that has a Dialysis Centre.

The Nephrologist will have the responsibility to visit all Taluk Centres on a rotation basis or be available through call or video conference to provide care for the patients. This step aims to ensure specialised medical supervision and support for dialysis patients in the Taluk Hospitals.

Randeep explained that the lack of oversight has resulted in a decline in the quality of services. Once the new tender is implemented, officials will ensure that vendors upload details for every dialysis performed on the PMNDP portal, and their compensation will be based on accurate reporting.
